Destruction of La Playa Almost Complete

Gaping windows, doors ajar, blackened outer walls and shattered interior partitions, ruin and desolation is all that remains of what old-time Carmelites used to refer to as "The Chocolate Castle."

On Tuesday evening, at about 6:20, when the roofs of the cottages were resounding with the patter of hailstones, the long mournful wail of the electric siren informed the city-dwellers that there was a fire.

The reddened sky only too clearly showed the location of the conflagration, whence hundreds made their way, taking no heed of the rain; intent only on getting as close to the burning pile as safety to life and limb would permit.

La Playa, one of Carmel's famous hostelries, is in ruins. It was originally a residence, built in 1906 by Chris Jorgensen, well known artist, who married into the Ghiradelli family, the large chocolate-making firm. In 1915 the property was taken over by Mrs. Agnes D. Signor, who turned it into a hotel. Mrs. Signor made many alterations and additions and achieved a signal success of her venture, which she personally conducted until her death about two years ago.

The property then came into the hands of Mrs. Helen G. Mueth, who has successfully managed it with the assistance of her sons, Harrison and Frederick Godwin.

The fire is reported to have started in one of the rooms on the second floor, where an over-heated wood stove ignited the wood-work. The loss, which has been estimated at from $25,000 to $40,000, is partly, if not wholly, covered by insurance.

It is probable that the work of reconstruction will begin very shortly, it being the idea of the owners to replace the wood-work with rock and concrete.

The limited facilities of the local fire department were quite inadequate to successfully combat a fire of such magnitude. Yet this story would be incomplete without calling attention to the splendid and unselfish devotion to duty of our fire laddies. A number of the boys risked their lives, time and time again, in efforts to subdue the flames. It is due in great measure to their work that no adjoining property was destroyed.

NOTES OF THE FIRE

James Mitchell and Hiram Rogers were injured, though not severely. Two other men were overcome by smoke.

There were only three guests in the hotel when the fire broke out, and these in the room where the blaze started.

One of the pathetic sights was the scurrying away from the doomed building of what seemed like scores of cats.

Practically everything of value in the way of personal effects, furniture, groceries, etc., were removed before the fire reached them, and stored before midnight.

The firemen were much hampered in their work by autos and pedestrians crowding in too close to the fire, and on two occasions the same auto drove over the new fire-hose.

Fountain Work Resumed

Editor The Pine Cone:—

Will you kindly make a statement in your paper so that all may understand the memorial fountain situation.

Sufficient work has been completed to allow the turning on of the water. This work has been paid for, and is my Christmas gift to the thirsty birds and animals here about.

Mrs. Mary J. Baker is contributing shrubs and plants. There are still old bills unpaid, so that "Those Who Served" will have to wait until these are settled for the dedication ceremonies.

I take this opportunity to thank Mr. M. J. Murphy for his help. He has made a considerable sacrifice and has shown a fine spirit.

ALFRED K. MILLER.

GREETINGS

At this season we can blend our voices and attune our souls to full jubilee.

The Prince of Peace has come again.

Because we make it so, Christmas is a day of cheer. Gifts are bestowed upon those to whom we love, we do those things which make for the happiness of children, and we perform kindly acts for the unfortunate.

In this season of "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men," in all sincerity the publishers of the Carmel Pine Cone extend to friends and patrons; wherever they are, A Merry Christmas.

Busy Session of Local Humane Society

By E. T. Gray

The Society held its regular December meeting on Wednesday afternoon, December 11th, at Pine Inn. Eight members were present.

Mrs. C. H. Yates reported for the house committee that plans were well under way for the opening of the Animal Shelter early in January. Mrs. Yates also read the report of the rules committee. The rules governing the care and management of the Shelter were approved by the society and will be published next month.

Miss Louise Conger, Miss Dorothy Bassett and Mrs. Kernan of Pacific Grove were made a home finding committee for small animals.

Miss Alice McChesney reported the gift of $25 from Mrs. George W. Wisner of Chicago to be used toward building a humane lethal chamber. Mrs. Wisner also wrote specific directions as to the installation and use of it as used effectively by the Denver Humane Society.

Miss McChesney also reported as a member of the memorial fountain committee that work was progressing upon the fountain and that the committee thought the Humane Society might wish to assist financially as the drinking fountain for animals is in nature of humane work. It was decided by the society that it would be illegal to use funds collected from the public for the Animal Shelter for another purpose but the Society pledged itself to assist through its personal membership or by giving an entertainment for that special purpose if the fountain committee needed its assistance.

The meeting closed with an appeal from the president for the members to inform themselves in regard to the Child Labor Amendment which will come before our State legislature in January.

The home finding committee will from time to time publish a description of cats and dogs at the Shelter which are suitable for pets and for which good homes are wanted. These animals will also be advertised in the Pine Cone, but the special characteristics of "Rover" and "Puss" will be told you in the humane column.

Plenty Happened— Go and See Jones

Who is this man Jones, and what's going to happen to him? We'll know all about it on the evening of the 1st of January, when Arthur Cyril will produce "What Happened to Jones," at Arts and Crafts Theatre.

The author of this old-time play, George H. Broadhurst, pronounces it a "hilarious sufficiency." It's one of the funniest comedies ever written. One ridiculous situation follows another. There is a laugh in every line. It's guaranteed to cure the most chronic case of nervous prostration, gout or indigestion. It's a low-brow play for low-brow people. Even the high-brows, if they haven't forgotten how to laugh, will get a kick out of it.

Three former professionals will appear in the cast—Arthur Cyril, Marian Daniels and Scott Seaton. Some of Carmel's best amateurs will assist in the production—among them, William Titmus, Alice Ward, Hal Bragg, Aubrey Sleathe, Jadwiga Noskoviak, Louise Wilson and Constance Heron.

Scott Seaton will play "The Bishop of Ballerat." He will wear the same wig that he wore twenty-five years ago, when he played this same part with Harry Corson Clarke. Mr. Seaton retired some time ago from the stage and of late years he has been a realty operator of Berkeley. During his stage career he was associated with many of the best-known actors of that time, among them the late Frank Bacon.

"What Happened to Jones" is a classic. It is just as side-splitting now as it was twenty-five years ago and just as long as the English language is spoken and as long as people love to rock and laugh with mirth, it will still be popular.

A generous proportion of the proceeds will be given to the firemen of Carmel. That alone should insure a packed house. Seats are now on sale for all three performances, January 1st, 2nd and 3rd.

Today is the shortest day in the year. From now on there will be longer and longer daylight time.

Potboiler's "Hairy Ape" Stopped in Los Angeles

The Potboiler Players, who gave "Beyond the Horizon" at the Golden Bough Theatre this last summer, are running through a siege of hard luck in Los Angeles. After producing for six nights "The Hairy Ape," by Eugene O'Neill, the fire department dropped down on them and closed up their artistic theatre. Hundreds of people had been turned away every night, and besides the play, which was directed by Ole M. Ness, Mitchell Lewis (a motion picture star) was a great drawing card in the role of "Yank," the stoker. The Potboilers had built eight realistic sets and the production was said by a critic to be the most daring and the best production given in any theatre in Los Angeles.

The same week of their closing, the Potboilers reopened at the Ruth St. Denis building, which has been offered to them as a temporary home.

Always original, Sigurd Russell and his artists are planning to hire a big garage and to turn it into a theatre. Thus patrons will be able to drive right up to orchestra seats and have automobile box seats.

During the run of their play, the Potboiler published a list of plays for the audiences to vote upon and the result was amazing. "The Master Builder," by Henrik Ibsen, received first honors. Then came, almost tied, "Outward Bound," by Sutton Vane; "Monna Vanna," Maeterlinck, and "Failures," by Le Normand. It is thought that as the little theatre movement of America was built on Ibsen, and that the public did not know the other modern plays listed, there was much room left for the educational movement of the Potboiler Players.

Pichel Talks

We expected so much from Irving Pichel when he lectured at Arts and Crafts last week, that an only moderately good talk would have disappointed us. Mr. Pichel was singularly good, and the informal address he made in his amazingly beautiful voice sent his audience home smiling appreciatively and saying over to themselves scraps like "Little Theaters born with no sense of humor but with a very strong sense of obligation."

Mr. Pichel speaks from the inside on any subject connected with the theater, as playwright, actor and producer. His experiences have stripped him of sentimentality, but have not weakened the convictions back of his dream, and when he estimates the values of Little Theaters and of Community Drama one feels him to be neither blinded nor bitter. Personal happenings, told with easy humor, enlivened a talk that might have run to twice its length without boring the audience.

A pleasant reception in Arts and Crafts Hall, offered by the entertainment committee, Mrs. P. K. Gordon, chairman, closed the evening.

Well-Attended Sunday Concerts

Mrs. B. L. Clarke was honored by having as her guest last Sunday afternoon Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke of New York, co-editor of Pictorial Review, and well-known author.

Mrs. Clarke had just come from Los Angeles, where she awarded the $5000 prize for the greatest woman promotor of art in the United States to Mrs. Edward MacDowell, the wife of America's world-famous pianist and composer.

It is hoped that Mrs. MacDowell will give a concert in Carmel later in the winter.

Guests who attended the Sunday afternoon musical, enjoyed the added pleasure of hearing David Alberto play. The ever-increasing attendance is proof that in music, as well as art and literature, Carmelites are appreciative.

Carol Singers Will Cheer the Sick

Owing to the fact that several of the boys who are to sing the Christmas carols, under the direction of Miss Mariam A. White, will be away on Christmas Eve, having gone with their families to spend the holidays elsewhere, the carols will be sung on Monday evening, December 22. If there are sick people who would enjoy having the boys sing at their homes, they can send their addresses to the Pine Cone office before Monday afternoon. Several have asked the boys to come to their homes and have promised them refreshments—hot chocolate, cakes, etc., or what the boys usually call "a feed," and which is always acceptable to boys, especially at Christmas time.

Another carol which they will sing appears in this issue. The boys are making the singing of carols their contribution to the Christmas spirit of the town; none are trained singers and must not be judged according to professional standards. We should accept the service in the spirit in which it is given from young hearts.

O Little Town of Bethlehem

O little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie,
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting light,
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.

For Christ is born of Mary,
And gathered all above,
While mortals sleep, the angels keep
Their watch of wondering love.
O morning stars,
Together proclaim the holy birth,
And praises sing to God the King,
And peace to men on earth.

How silently, how silently,
The wondrous gift is given,
So God imparts to human hearts
The blessings of His heaven.
No ear may hear His coming,
But in this world of sin,
Where meek souls will receive Him still
The dear Christ enters in.

Let Christmas Spirit Prevail Through Year

WHAT a world it would be if all of us kept up the Christmas spirit all through the year! How much of unhappiness, or discontent, or unrest, would we all be spared? How many foolish quarrels and useless bickerings would never be if our hearts held the message of love and trust and peace that they do today? How many homes would be unbroken and how many men and women would work together in a new and deeper bond of love and service? How trivial and small would appear some of the reasons that estrange us from each other? How petty and mean the little jealousies and misunderstandings that hamper our way and our vision? How different our fellow-men would appear in our eyes—their little weaknesses and failings would be things to stir our hearts to pity, instead of to scorn and contempt. Well it would be for the world and for each one of us as individuals if the spirit of peace, of love, of goodwill toward all men burned in our hearts through all the year with the fervor it does today.—Katherine Edelman.

WHAT IS AMERICANIZATION?

The word "Americanization" has fallen under a shadow because it has been used too frequently as a cant phrase, but it is too good a word to be relegated to the limbo of discredited terminolgy.

What does it mean? Not merely an ability to read and write the English language and to understand all the modus operandi of the American government, with a smattering of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. There are unnumbered American citizens of both native and foreign birth who know all these things and more, and yet fall far short of being good American citizens.

To be an American in truth, is to have an understanding of American tradition and American history, whereby there has been developed upon this continent a new social order different from and better than any social organization that history has known, distinctive because for the first time here is a social order dedicated to justice, liberty, brotherhood and righteousness. It means further, a profound appreciation of those principles and of that spirit that has made this nation great, not only in populations, but in moral force and spiritual ideals.

When a man of foreign birth or ancestry assumes the obligations of the American citizen, he by that act specifically repudiates the culture and ideals of his fathers, insofar as that culture and those ideals conflict with the spirit and purposes of the American commonwealth. There can be no divided allegiance; no other country, no dual love.

LEAVE CHILD LABOR TO STATES

President Coolidge refuses to support the child labor amendment to the federal constitution, which would give Congress jurisdiction over labor of all persons under 18 years of age.

The child labor amendment advocates will try to force every legislature in session this coming year to submit this question to a vote of the people.

Massachusetts, the President's home state, and some other states, have buried the amendment under enormous negative majorities, taking position that it is a question for every state to deal with.

Business organizations, some forty organizations of manufacturers and about eighty state and national organizations of farmers and hundreds of chambers of commerce and bar associations are opposing this twentieth amendment.

The federal child labor amendment would create a department at Washington with an army of officials traveling over the United States and telling families of good American citizens how to bring up their children and issuing permits whether boys and girls up to the age of 18 shall be permitted to labor, and under what conditions.

Year-End Session of Our City Trustees

An adjourned regular meeting of the Carmel city trustees was held last Monday evening, all the trustees present and William T. Kibbler in the chair.

One of the interesting reports of the evening was that of Trustee Helen W. Parkes, who stated that the completion of the soldier memorial on Ocean avenue was now in the hands of a volunteer committee. The city will stand the expense of the water used for the fountain.

B. E. Cutler reported that the Sanitary Board was still working upon the plans to pipe the sewage to the sea, which plans are endorsed by Engineers Grunsky and Severance.

Humane affairs was the subject of a talk by C. H. Yates. The whole matter was referred to City Attorney Argyll Campbell.

Trustee H. P. Larouette reported the recently purchased fire-hose satisfactory, and the board voted its acceptance.

A resolution was adopted requesting the city attorney to ascertain if monies from the city's general fund may be used to maintain the Harrison Library.

First reading was given an ordinance having to do with tree protection.

New Photographic Studio

There came to Carmel from Los Angeles last March, Albert K. Molendyk. He arrived in Los Angeles from Amsterdam, Holland, in October, 1923. In his home country research and investigation in photography was his business. Now he has established himself here, opening today a studio in the former Seidenick studio on Dolores street, near Ocean avenue. His work-room is equipped with the latest scientific instruments needed for photographic work of an exacting nature. He also does portrait work.

WE'RE NOT LICKED YET

Accompanied by his gang, Paul Denny came into the Pine Cone office the other day and wanted to clean out the place, because, as he stated, we misquoted him in our last week's issue, but we suspect that we conveyed Paul's real feeling after all. What say, Paul?

Higher thought services will be held at the Mansfield Wilson cottage on Dolores between Eighth and Ninth, at 2:30, tomorrow. Subject: "Christ's Birth and Reign in Man."

Humane Notes

The Carmel Humane Society meets the second Wednesday in every month, at two-fifteen, Pine Inn. Visitors are welcome.

This is Humorous But Not for the Cat.

"What became of the portable garage of yours?"

"I tied the dog to it the other day and a cat came by."

"Maltreatment of animals shows cowardice and ignorance."—Tolstoy.

"Detested sport which owes its pleasures to another's pain."—Cowper.

"We plead for the cause of those dumb mouths that have no speech."—Longfellow.

"The spirit of humanity is wider than humanity itself."—Francis H. Rowley.

The Atlantic City, New Jersey, Board of Trustees recently enacted legislation requiring that all dogs be vaccinated against rabies. Upon further investigation it was found that the best dog authorities and reliable veterinarians of the state considered the vaccination unnecessary and the ordinance was repealed. Not, however, without much opposition from the veterinarians who had purchased serum from the manufacturing companies, with confidence in its efficacy.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Trussler of Paso Robles were in Carmel for a day and then went on to San Jose, to attend the dedication of the Episcopal Church in that city.

Showing of Local Wood Block Prints

The Seven Arts is showing a group of block prints by Amos W. Engle, San Francisco artist.

Mr. Engle has spent several months in Carmel painting water-colors and oils and completing a group of block prints of Carmel, Monterey and vicinity. The prints are distinctly modern in treatment, seeking to convey the emotional aspects of the subjects chosen through a carefully organized and decorative pattern, rather than by the slavish use of external details. The results are kept strictly within the limits of the medium and are forceful and convincing.

The Seven Arts announces that they are the first in Carmel to show these interesting prints.

Year-End Session of Our City Trustees

An adjourned regular meeting of the Carmel city trustees was held last Monday evening, all the trustees present and William T. Kibbler in the chair.

One of the interesting reports of the evening was that of Trustee Helen W. Parkes, who stated that the completion of the soldier memorial on Ocean avenue was now in the hands of a volunteer committee. The city will stand the expense of the water used for the fountain.

R. F. Gillett reported that the Sanitary Board was still working upon the plans to pipe the sewage to the sea, which plans are endorsed by Engineers Grunsky and Severance.

Humane affairs was the subject of a talk by C. H. Yates. The whole matter was referred to City Attorney Argyll Campbell.

Trustee H. P. Larouette reported the recently purchased fire-hose satisfactory, and the board voted its acceptance.

A resolution was adopted requesting the city attorney to ascertain if monies from the city's general fund may be used to maintain the Harrison Library.

First reading was given an ordinance having to do with tree protection.

New Photographic Studio

There came to Carmel from Los Angeles last March, Albert K. Molendyk. He arrived in Los Angeles from Amsterdam, Holland, in October, 1923. In his home country research and investigation in photography was his business. Now he has established himself here, opening today a studio in the former Seidenick studio on Dolores street, near Ocean avenue. His work-room is equipped with the latest scientific instruments needed for photographic work of an exacting nature. He also does portrait work.

WE'RE NOT LICKED YET

Accompanied by his gang, Paul Denny came into the Pine Cone office the other day and wanted to clean out the place, because, as he stated, we misquoted him in our last week's issue, but we suspect that we conveyed Paul's real feeling after all. What say, Paul?

Higher thought services will be held at the Mansfield Wilson cottage on Dolores between Eighth and Ninth, at 2:30, tomorrow. Subject: "Christ's Birth and Reign in Man."

A cordial invitation is extented to all for these services.

Humane Notes

The Carmel Humane Society meets the second Wednesday in every month, at two-fifteen, Pine Inn. Visitors are welcome.

This is Humorous But Not for the Cat.

"What became of the portable garage of yours?"

"I tied the dog to it the other day and a cat came by."

"Maltreatment of animals shows cowardice and ignorance."—Tolstoy.

"Detested sport which owes its pleasures to another's pain."—Cowper.

"We plead for the cause of those dumb mouths that have no speech."—Longfellow.

"The spirit of humanity is wider than humanity itself."—Francis H. Rowley.

The Atlantic City, New Jersey, Board of Trustees recently enacted legislation requiring that all dogs be vaccinated against rabies. Upon further investigation it was found that the best dog authorities and reliable veterinarians of the state considered the vaccination unnecessary and the ordinance was repealed. Not, however, without much opposition from the veterinarians who had purchased serum from the manufacturing companies, with confidence in its efficacy.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Trussler of Paso Robles were in Carmel for a day and then went on to San Jose, to attend the dedication of the Episcopal Church in that city.

Showing of Local Wood Block Prints

The Seven Arts is showing a group of block prints by Amos W. Engle, San Francisco artist.

Mr. Engle has spent several months in Carmel painting water-colors and oils and completing a group of block prints of Carmel, Monterey and vicinity. The prints are distinctly modern in treatment, seeking to convey the emotional aspects of the subjects chosen through a carefully organized and decorative pattern, rather than by the slavish use of external details. The results are kept strictly within the limits of the medium and are forceful and convincing.

The Seven Arts announces that they are the first in Carmel to show these interesting prints.

What Happened to Jones

At Arts and Crafts Theatre
On the first day of the year,
A bunch of clever artists
In comedy will appear.

It's one of George H. Broadhurst's—
Now he's well known, you know—
So if you really want to laugh,
Don't fail to see this show!

Scott Seaton comes from Berkeley
To join this little band;
He played the Bishop years ago,
But is not a real old man.

You all know Arthur Cyril—
How funny he can be—
Just wait until you see his part
In this great comedy.

We have a big surprise in store,
You'll laugh your sides to ache
At Marie Gordon's Swedish girl—
For that's the part she'll take.

And there is Marian Damets—
You've seen her here before—
Her acting in this old-maid part
Is bound to make you roar.

And Hal Bragg as the Indian,
As crazy as can be;
I'll bet you'll say the part
Just fits Hal to a T.

There are other clever people,
But you just go and see;
You'll more than get your money's worth—
Just take this tip from me.

EAST TO INVESTIGATE

Mrs. Josephine Rand Rogers who owns a charming bungalow on the beach, was in Carmel last week looking after her property which has just been vacated by the Egans of Chicago.

Next week Mrs. Rogers leaves for an extended visit in the East planning to spend some time in the principal large cities and making an investigation of child welfare work done in different parts of the country, besides visiting relatives and friends.

The California Child Research Station movement owes its origin to Mrs. Rogers' initiation; and the establishment of this station at the University of California is one of the foremost educational activities of public spirited citizens of the state.

PINE NEEDLES

The Carmel Realty Co. has moved into its new office, corner Ocean avenue and Dolores street. The location formerly occupied by this firm will shortly house the Ries & Down shoe store.

Carmel girls who took part in the recital given by the pupils of Constance Bruhl in Pacific Grove last Tuesday evening were Josephine Dibrell, Henrietta Farley, Geven Snipes and Iola Nichols.

Mrs. George Ross has a home in Canada, also one in Cleveland, Ohio. But that makes no difference. She always spends the winter in Carmel. She is occupying her old quarters at Pine Inn now.

As a Christmas attraction Macy's great department store in New York has one of Tony Sarg's companies giving daily shows. Mrs. Marvel Phillips-Alexander Mulgardt is one of the puppet manipulators.

From "Maine to California" is no dream for Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kingsbury, artists of Oganquit, who arrived at Pine Inn last week. They are anxious to paint some of the wonderful Monterey Coast scenes, and will be here some time.

All the grades of the local public school took part in the Christmas closing exercises last Friday. So many parents and friends of the pupils were present that seats were at a premium. As usual Delos Curtis is to be thanked for supplying every child with a candy cane.

Writing from St. Ives, Cornwall, England, to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mawdsley, Mrs. Sidney Yard says: "Be happy, my good friends, that you are in sunny Carmel. England, no doubt, is all that is lovely in the springtime—but the winter . . . ! I have been here nearly three weeks and have seen the sun only three times; rain continually, dull and dismal between times. Xmas greetings and best wishes to all Carmel friends."

Scott Seaton, who is to play the bishop in "What Happened to Jones," arrived here last Thursday evening and stayed long enough to go through two rehearsals. He was the guest of the Misses Marian and Camila Daniels On Saturday evening he was the dinner guest of the Fenton P. Fosters.

Anne Shannon Monroe, a writer on "Good Housekeeping," and whose new novel, "Behind the Ranges," a story of an Oregon cattle ranch, will be published by Doubleday, Page & Co. in April, has taken the Yard studio on Lincoln street for the winter. Miss Monroe spent the past year in Los Angeles. She makes her home in Portland, Oregon, and in New York city.

Percy Parkes will save you money on your new home; save you overhead. Adv.
